

Hello and welcome to the Kansas Counseling Association.

I am Andrew Secor and it is my pleasure to serve as the KCA President for the 2022-2023 board year. This year's board theme is Back to Basics. The idea is getting back to what we do well after many years of disruptions due to the pandemic and navigating a world much different than that to which we were accustomed. We are grateful to those that carried the board during those times and appreciate those that continue to serve today.

We have an excellent group of people serving KCA this year. We are working on many tasks including the annual conference, advocacy, and a search for a new executive director with Kim Urenda announcing her resignation after many years of service to KCA. I hope you will take some time to familiarize yourself with the KCA via our website. Our goal is to serve counseling professionals in the State of Kansas and offer opportunities for education, networking, and growth of the profession through advocacy efforts. Thank you for the important and vital work you do to serve the people of Kansas in the various settings in which you work.

Again, welcome to the KCA,

Andrew Secor
